Work began today on I-29 LaMars Interchange near the S.D. border

The North Dakota Department of Transportation began work today on Interstate 29 at LaMars Interchange located two miles north of the South Dakota border. The bridge over Interstate 29 was closed today and construction will be completed before fall. As work continues throughout the summer, the Interstate will be closed in this area next week and traffic will be re-routed to the exit ramps. Travelers are encouraged to watch for signs and reduce speeds in the work area.

During the construction season, travelers are encouraged to watch for road construction and use caution while traveling in workzones. For road construction information, call 511 from any type of phone or go to the website: www.nd.gov.
